

UNIC VIP Fund Collaboration Calls

- Professor Sunčana Rokсандić (Head of the Criminal Law Department at the University of Zagreb Faculty of Law) is seeking UNIC partners to collaborate on a UNIC VIP Fund in the field of anti-corruption. If your university is offering courses in anti-corruption (criminal law courses, prevention of corruption courses – access to information, conflict of interest, and similar) in law or other social sciences subjects (political science, public administration, sociology), get in touch! Contact: suncana.roksandic@pravo.unizg.hr or AnticorrEdu@pravo.unizg.hr
- Dr. Nafisa Yeasmin (Development Manager of the Micro-entrepreneurship Centre [MicroENTRE] at the University of Oulu's Kerttu Saalasti Institute), is currently seeking a partner from a UNIC university for a potential UNIC VIP funding application. The collaboration is sought for the course Managing Sustainability through responsible leadership. This online course aims to provide students with key concepts in sustainability. Contact: nafisa.yeasmin@oulu.fi.
- Dr Mutahira Lone (University College Cork) is looking to find a collaborator for her module AN6011, a 10-credit module designed for MSc in Human Anatomy students. This module focuses on anatomy pedagogy and teaching tools and is part of a small but dynamic program, with a cohort of 10–15 students annually. The module runs across Semester 1 and Semester 2 (September–April). For further details, please refer to the module description here. Mutahira has a strong interest in exploring AI applications in education and assessment, particularly in enhancing engagement and inclusivity, and is keen to develop collaborations in areas such as anatomy teaching, medical education, and ethics. Contact: M.Lone@ucc.ie
- Dr Kian Mintz-Woo (School of Philosophy and the Environmental Research Institute, University College Cork) is hoping to develop or test a virtual activity which called a modern Thinkery (or a virtual fieldtrips). The basic idea is for two groups to jointly attend a virtual talk [the groups could be linked either by discipline (philosophy) or by topic (climate, death, health, potentially other applied ethics issues)] in order to learn tacit skills involved in following an extended argument and formulating relevant questions. This also acts as a scaffolded version of going to an academic talk, since it allows for live discussion during the talk with some level of guidance from instructors. If you are interested, you or your colleagues can either reach out to Kian directly or email unic@ucc.ie in the first instance. Kian's email: mintzwoo@ucc.ie
- Andreas Rogler (the Faculty of Education and Psychology, University of Oulu) is seeking for partners within the framework of a course titled “Global Citizen Education” – an online course scheduled for the summer period. Andreas is particularly interested in partnering with academics who can co-teach the course, offering diverse insights and perspectives. This includes examining Global Citizen Education (GCE) from an indigenous standpoint or discussing GCE in various countries by incorporating their local experiences. Contact: andreas.rogler@oulu.fi

- Laura Timonen and Iiris Kivioja (Faculty of Education and Psychology at the University of Oulu) are currently seeking a partner for the course "Experimental Natural Science", part of the STEAM minor subject. The course aims to provide students with hands-on experience in scientific experimentation and inquiry-based learning. It covers topics such as designing and conducting experiments, analyzing data, and applying scientific principles to real-world problems from a future teacher's point of view. A partnership in this initiative would not only enrich the student learning experience but also offer valuable insights and opportunities for the partner institution. Contact: laura.timonen@oulu.fi and iiris.kivioja@oulu.fi
- Dr. Mehmet Zeki Giritli (Koç University) is seeking for partners within the framework of a course titled "Gender in Modern Theatre & Film". This course explores the representation of gender and gender roles in theatre and film around the world. The course is designed to provide an insight to how gender roles are portrayed in theatre and film around different parts of the world, and how it reflects understanding of gender in various cultures. If you are interested, please contact Koc UNIC Team: unic@ku.edu.tr
- Prof. Nives Mikelic Preradovic (Department of Information and Communication Sciences, University of Zagreb) is seeking a partner for collaboration on an educational project for the VIP Fund application. The project is titled Virtual Challenge-Based Learning for Rural Communities. CBL activities will tackle challenges of rural communities through virtual collaboration and work on student projects where both the rural partnership and teamwork with university students will be conducted online. If you are interested, please contact prof. Nives Mikelic Preradovic: nmikelic@ffzg.unizg.hr
